HONORABLE ALLEN KNIGHT=
CITY HALL CARMEL CALIF=

1950 APR 18 PM 8 30

WE WISH TO CONGRATULATE YOU UPON YOUR APPOINTMENT AS MAYOR AND TO OFFER OUR COMPLETE SUPPORT IN ALL CIVIC MATTERS DURING YOUR TERM OF OFFICE, SINCERELY=
THE SPECTATOR

The SPECTATOR not only predicted Allen Knight would be Carmel's next mayor but sent him the first congratulatory wire to pass through the Carmel Western Union office. The wire is reproduced above. See story below for full details on Tuesday's council meeting.

Knight New Carmel Mayor

Pledging himself to try to preserve the traditions of Carmel, veteran city councilman Allen Knight took over the Mayor's gavel Tuesday evening.

Knight was nominated by Councilman Donald Craig, who declared last week's vote indicated confidence in the Council as a whole. Pointing out that Knight had twice been elected to office, Craig said the city needed a man of experience.

Carmel's new council members were sworn in by City Clerk Peter Mawdsley. Donald Craig, re-elected, and John Chitwood, newcomer to council ranks, were then presented with certificates of election.

Mayor Knight named Andy Martin commissioner of police, and Chitwood, commissioner of health and safety. Others were re-appointed to present posts. Earlier, the old council, as a last act, passed resolution number 1246, making official returns in last week's election. Speaking for city workers, City Clerk Peter Mawdsley expressed their feelings for Fred Godwin, council member for 10 years, and Mayor for the last four.

Referring to his service, Mawdsley said, "We have a real regard and deep respect for Mayor Fred, whose inate fairness and consideration have meant so much."

Replying, Godwin said, "After 10 years on the council, I feel it is time for someone else to take over. I feel that everyone should take part in civic affairs. I appreciate the cooperation I have received, and I am going to miss being a part of civic government. A city council member is only as good as his fellow workers. I would like to say we are fortunate in Carmel: we don't have politics." Naming councilmen individually, Godwin expressed his thanks for their help.

The SPECTRE

By CERF ANDSAND

Bert Taylor, of Taylor and Vial, contractors, tells a strange story about Saturday night before Easter. Driving home from the Mission Ranch, he noticed another automobile following him and playing a spotlight through his rear window. Bert didn't think it was the police as he hadn't broken any laws, but he stopped his car and the following auto also came to a halt: then he went back to find out what it was all about. "Why are you flashing your spot on me?" Bert asked the other driver. "Oh, it's Saturday night," was the reply, "and I just like to do it."

"You can't do that," Bert said, understandably irritated.

"What are you going to do about it?" the other man asked.

"Why, I'll take you to the police," Bert warned.

"OK. Go ahead."

"OK. Follow me."

Bert returned to his car and was shadowed all the way to Carmel PD Station, the spotlight still glaring after him. Everyone was puzzled; the man with the spotlight was given a good talking to and released. Gee whiz!

With the Pacific Grove City City Council talking about how high television antennae should go, it reminds me how nice it has been that TV, as yet, has not taken the peninsula. Would like to do a long satirical article on Godfrey sometime, but I can't stand to listen to him long enough to compile the material ...

PG & E PAYS $924,415 TAXES TO COUNTY; $30,855 FOR CARMEL

Pacific Gas and Electric Company's 1950 property tax payments in Monterey County, on which second installment payment has just been made, total $371,732, according to T. E. Ward, $371,732, according to T. E. Ward, manager of the firm's coast valleys division. PG&E's tax bill amounted to 4.71 percent of all property taxes levied in the county.

Total taxes of all kinds paid by PG&E amounted to $924,415 for Monterey County, including $30,855 for the city of Carmel. Ward explained that the latter figures are based on actual property and franchise taxes, plus federal and state taxes paid on the company's system as a whole, and prorated to cities and counties according to local gross revenues of the firm.

The $371,732 total property taxes paid in the county included $180,457 for schools, $121,321 for county government, $46,765 for city government and $23,189 in various district taxes. Ad valorem taxes on the company's property taxes in Carmel amounted to $9,465. Included in this figure were $1,621 for city government, $3,040 for county government, $3,861 for schools and $933 for districts other than school districts.

NAVY CRUISER ARRIVES SATURDAY AT MONTEREY

The U.S.S. Manchester, (CL83), will arrive in Monterey Bay on Saturday to embark more than 100 staff and student officers from the Naval School, Monterey, and take them to sea and San Francisco for a week cruise in practical work, Captain T. J. Casey, USN, commanding officer of the school, announced today.

The cruise during the week of April 22-28 marks the beginning of a new schedule for school ship operations in connection with the navy school study courses. Three other cruises are planned; each one taking one quarter of the student officers enrolled at the school to sea for exercises in navigation, seamanship, engineering and damage control, and gunnery. During the cruise, the student officers will also visit, in divided groups, the San Francisco Naval Shipyard at Hunters Point, for further practical indoctrination in an operating shore establishment of the Navy.

The new plan concentrates each student officer's shipboard training in one period, in contrast to the previous system whereby several small naval vessels were in Monterey Bay for long periods of one-day shipboard instruction.

The U.S.S. Manchester, nicknamed the "Mighty Man" by her crew, because of her extended cruises to many ports throughout the world in the past two years, is commanded by Captain C. W. Wilkins, US Navy.

During the weekend of April 29-30 it is expected that the cruiser will be open for visiting by the public as she lays at anchor in Monterey Bay.

1950 Land Cruiser---the car of ECOMOMICAL LUXURY

Studebaker's Land Cruiser is a car designed for the family that wants unlimited motoring luxury—but wants it at a sensibly limited price; the family that can afford the best—and also wants economical operation.

This finely balanced, roomy, powerful automobile is one of America's finest examples of quality-car designing; and seldom has the skill of the decorator or trim engineer been displayed to better advantage.

It has a center arm rest for the rear seat; electric clock; wind wings on rear windows; robe cord and ash tray on back of front seat; nylon cord upholstery, in a choice of two patterns.

The Land Cruiser has extra-wide rear doors; extra leg-room in the front and rear seats; and extra room in the trunk.

ANTI PARKING METER PETITIONS BEING CIRCULATED

The first step on the part of New Monterey merchants in their fight against parking meters and parallel parking on Lighthouse Avenue was taken Saturday when a dozen petitions went into circulation for Monterey voters to sign.

If 15 percent of the voters sign the petitions, and observers seem to think they will, the whole question will be brought before the voters on the June ballot or at a special election. If the vote goes the way New Monterey merchants want it, the City Council will be forced to restore diagonal parking and do away with parking meters on Lighthouse.

Faye Roberts, president of the New Monterey Merchants Association, told The SPECTATOR this week that the group definitely does not plan for the question to affect areas in Monterey other than Lighthouse Avenue.

Already, however, the Monterey City Council has had a request from Monterey Restaurant Operator Tony De Vigo, who said that if diagonal parking and an unmetered sidewalk go into effect on Lighthouse, he wanted the same thing on Pacific Street outside his restaurant.

MEET THE MEAT MAN

Don Lassila, left, who operates the meat department at Carmel's Lucky Boy Market, was born 39 years ago in Minnesota of Finnish ancestry. He graduated from Hibbing Junior College, contacting the grocery and meat trade first as a wholesale salesman of butter and meat products. He operated his own grocery and meat market in cold, icy Duluth, but a visit to the Monterey Peninsula last Summer convinced him that this is the place to live. During the war he served as a company clerk in the Army and as a welder at the San Pedro Naval Repair Yard. He and his wife Helen have three daughters: Mary Jane, 5 months, Betty, 7, and Patricia, 5; also a son, Ronald, who is 18 and is presently serving with the Army Air Corps. Mr. Lassila's hobby is music. He played with the Palos Verdes Symphony under the baton of Maestro Joseph Piastro, who is widely known as a master of the violin... Polaroid One-Minute Photo.

Sam Match, 8th ranking player in the United States, and Jerry DeWitts, University of San Francisco, National Indoor Junior Champion, defeated Straight Clark, University of Southern California, and Henry Pfister, College of Pacific, 6-5, 6-4, to win the Doubles title in the Pebble Beach Tennis Championships.

TO PREPARE VOLUME ON CALIFORNIA MISSIONS

To coincide with plans for the restoration dedication program at Mission San Antonio de Padua, Sunday, June 4, the California Mission Trails Association has this week awarded a printing contract and stepped up the production of its new book, "California's Missions," to be ready in time for the date of the San Antonio Mission celebration.

The first edition of this new volume, which is a document on all of the Missions along El Camino Real and an item for student and traveler alike, will require better than 13 tons of hand-made paper now en route to the West Coast on special order. The book will be of approximately 100 pages in length and will be fully illustrated. Previews of the sketches of all the missions and interesting highlights of each have already brought unusually fine appraisal from art authorities. The general quality of the complete work will no doubt make it a notable addition to mission literature and another collector's item for those interested in authentic Californiana.

The restoration work at Mission San Antonio de Padua is progressing rapidly under the direction of Franciscan Father Gregory Wooler and visitors at the dedication and barbecue-fiesta of June 4 will find a new, living institution in the same primitive environment which greeted the founders 179 years ago. Plans for the program are now complete and the full day of activities will start with a High Mass and blessing of the new bells, to be followed by a noon barbecue and official ceremony which will be radio broadcast nationally.

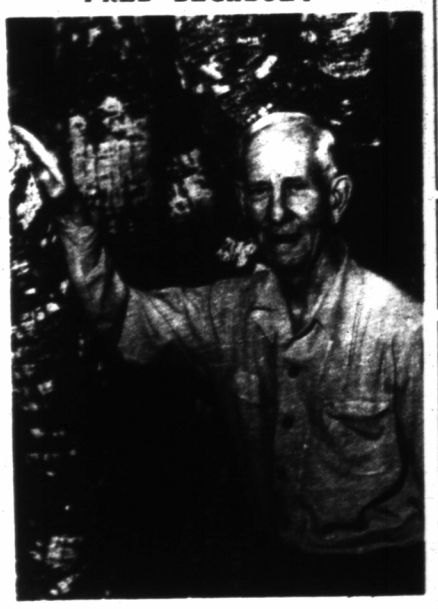
FRED BECHDOLT



The death last week of Frederick Ritchie Bechdolt, of Carmel, told more of the ending of an era than any change in the village he lived in and loved since the turn of the century. No story of Carmel's history could be true without mentioning his name; whether written in the clarity of the present or by some unknown chronicler who must peer backward from the forgetfulness of distant future.

Mr. Bechdolt is not only remembered for his attachment to Carmel. He was a writer and a public figure who remained active, till the end, in the leadership of his society. In his younger years, he was an adventurer and a newspaperman who contributed to the history of the Klondike and the virility of early West Coast journalism.

He knew how to equate outspokeness and firmness with generosity and fair-mindedness. He was as expansive as the country he lived in.

Russians May Possess More Warplanes Than U. S., but—

Believe Red Aircraft Doesn't Excel United States Planes

SPECIAL TO THE SPECTATOR

WASHINGTON—Top intelligence agencies are convinced that Russian air power has now surpassed that of the United States in terms of mass.

The intelligence people, plus high American air generals, do not, however, believe that the Soviets have excelled United States warplanes in efficiency. Nor do they believe that the Russian airman and his leaders can top the American flyer in ability.

Gen. Mao Tse-tsung

The Air Force and the Navy are operating about 15,000 planes. It is believed Russia has about 25,000. Many of the United States planes will be obsolescent within two years, but even then they will probably be as good as the bulk of the Soviet aircraft.

American strategists believe they have the edge in their new, secret designs.

* * * *

● RED PLANES IN CHINA?—The Kremlin talks between Stalin and Red China's Gen. Mao Tse-tsung may have effectively sealed the fate of Nationalist China.

Although no announcement was made after the talks as to what Chinese Communists would get from Russia in the way of military assistance, the answer has not been long in coming.

Chinese Red forces, long at a disadvantage because lack of planes, seems suddenly to have acquired a fair number. At least, they now have enough to make a show of strength over Formosa, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's last stand.

Reports from the area say that Chinese Communist planes are over Formosa almost daily and that they seem to be increasing in numbers.

* * * *

● RUSSIAN STOCKPILING—There are reports in Washington now that Russia is building up a stockpile of food, fuel and military equipment. Soviet buyers are said to be busy throughout most of the world and particularly are interested in such items as rubber, tin, lead and industrial diamonds. The Kremlin lacks these vitals.

Moscow gained a new source of lead, tin and other metals through the Communist conquest of China.

Military experts, commenting on the significance of the reports, point out that food cannot be kept too long without spoiling and that explosives deteriorate in about four years.

Some say, however, that the stockpile may be due to a Russian fear of attack from the west.

● LABOR UNITY—Despite the many failures of the past, CIO President Philip Murray's labor unity proposal is given a reasonable chance of success this time.

Unification John L.'s Final Goal?

John L. Lewis, having won new contract gains for his miners and established a model welfare program, is believed to have one more major objective—to see the American labor movement unified.

Consequently, Lewis is expected to work powerfully toward such an end.

One veteran AFL leader made this comment after Murray's unity scheme was put forward: "If there ever was a time we needed labor unity, it's now. It is time we quit thinking about what the leaders of labor want and think about what the rank and file wants. They want unity."

Water
as free as air

Yes, water is as free as air—but, as in the case of air, cost is involved when it is "handled."

You do not pay for the warm air which circulates through your home in winter, but you do pay for the gas that warms it, and for the equipment that furnishes the heat. You do not pay for the air in your air-conditioned house, but you do pay for the power that cools it, and for the machinery that produces the power. In both cases, however, the air itself is free.

Water is also free—a gift of Nature. Water pours from the sky, permeates the land to subterranean basins, or flows down hillsides into lakes and rivers. But, in its natural state, though free, water is not available for use in this modern world. It must be "handled" to be handy.

How "handling" creates cost can be illustrated by this experience of a friend of ours who, some thirty years ago, worked in a Nevada mine. One of his daily duties was to drive a pair of mules, hitched to a wagon load of empty barrels, two tortuous miles to a well in the valley, where working a pump by hand, he would fill the barrels, later transferring the water to users' private containers who paid at the rate of $1.00 a barrel-full—more than $9.00 a ton.

In effect a modern water works does the same job as the man and his mules, only on an expanded scale. In this region the water supply is in the mountains, 30 miles away. The water must be accumulated in sufficient quantities to meet the daily requirements of consumers; must be stored in reservoirs for use during the rainless months; must be treated to insure purity and safety; must be transported to service areas; must be distributed to users, not just to their doorsteps, but to points within their premises, to be available in any quantity at any time wherever wanted.

But, in spite of the investment in dams, treatment plants, transmission mains, pipe networks, and other equipment, and of expenses of operation and managment, your company brings you water as you require it for less than 10¢ a ton!

Water is one of the least expensive commodities anyone can obtain. What else of any value can be compared with it for lowness of cost?

Egon Petri, who will appear in Carmel on Saturday in a piano recital at the Sunset School auditorium that promises to be an imposing musical event...His impressive program includes, among other numbers, two chorale preludes of Bach, four sonatas of Scarlatti, the brilliant Beethoven Sonata in A flat, and the complete group of Chopin's Twenty-four Preludes.

It would take a veritable king of the keyboards to meet the technical and emotional requirements of a program of these proportions, but Petri's training and vast experience indicate that he is easily capable of doing justice to it. For over 30 years he has concertized over all of Europe as well as in many of the musical centers of this country. In addition he has played an extensive series of concertos with most of the world's major symphony orchestras.

From Buchmayer, his earliest teacher, Petri derived a fluent technique that later gave him an effortless command of his instrument. Under instruction of Teresa Careno, famed Venezuela singer and pianist, he attained in his interpretation much of her romantic charm. But it was his years of study with the eminent pianist and composer Busoni where he developed the sturdiness characteristic of his Dutch heritage and the musicianship that has made his name a byword on two continents.

Petri's concert is being sponsored by the Monterey County Symphony Association. Tickets are on sale in Carmel at Abinante's and Wells' Music Stores; in Monterey at Abinante's; and in Pacific Grove at Colman's Music Store. Give to Conquer Cancer

THE DRUGGISTS OF CARMEL MAKE THIS APPEAL

Strike Back!

THE fight is on to save more lives in 1950! Now is the time to back science to the hilt in its all out battle against cancer.

Important gains have already been made. Last year, 67,000 men, women and children were rescued from cancer. Many more can be saved—if you resolve to save them—if you strike back at cancer.

Give! Give your dimes and quarters and dollars. More treatment facilities are needed, more skilled physicians, more medical equipment and laboratories. The success of great research and educational programs depends on your support.

Your contribution to the American Cancer Society supports these vital efforts. It helps guard your neighbor, yourself, your loved ones. So this year, strike back at cancer . . . Give more than before . . . Give as generously as you can.

nos petits secrets

By Janine

This week I want to speak about a few subjects that may be controversial. I hope you won't mind. I will try to explain some erroneous ideas that many Americans have about Europeans - especially about French people.

I have heard, for example: "They spend two hours to eat lunch!" Yes, they do. In France the noon meal is the most important meal of the day and, unlike the custom here, everyone goes home for lunch. Thus the average Frenchman spends his two hours going home, by metro or bicycle, eating and returning to work. European shops and factories stay open later than their American counterparts to make up for this long lunch hour.

"French people drink a lot." This, to the French, is a ridiculous criticism. We have practically no problem of alcoholism there and intoxicated people are rarely seen. True, we appreciate the taste of good wines, but, with good food, a glass of liquor will last a whole evening. I agree that the aperitif is important to us, but mainly because aperitif and conversation always go together (and you know how talkative we French are!). Much business, in France, is transacted in cafes, restaurants, over coffee, liqueurs .. and a good cigar when one can be found. This explains why visiting tourists have the idea that "everyone" in France is an habitue of bars.

Many Americans in positions of influence (Embassy workers, Marshall Plan and War Department workers) have written articles about their "tough" times in Paris. Their complaints were mainly about lack of central heating, hot water, and the antiquated sanitary facilities. All these things are the result of something much discussed in the United States today, namely, "Welfare State" government. The socialists in France, in order to gain favor with the working classes, passed laws about rent control so short-sighted that no landlord can possibly afford to replace outmoded equipment and break even on his investment. That is why all over France buildings are deteriorating.

There is also a widespread idea that the French have a tendency to be slovenly looking. True, daily showers are not possible for everyone, and the working people in their "bleus de travail" (blue denims) don't look as spotless as their American colleagues, but after work each day a sponge bath is "de rigeur", and every town of France is proud of its public bath house. On Fridays and Saturdays the waiting lines are long...it often requires a two-hour wait to bathe.

A tip on parcels to France: The only rare and expensive item still rationed in France is coffee. The monthly ration is one quarter of a pound per person, and the black market price for coffee is about 1600 francs the kilo (about $2.00 a pound). Italian type coffee in sealed tins (available at luxury grocery shops), or, for a real treat, green coffee should be sent... The person who receives such a package will be very grateful to you

Growing Pains

By MIKE McCLURE

Carmel's league leading track team, held back by leg injuries, was not up to par last Saturday when it journeyed to San Jose for the relays there. Even with these handicaps, there were no slouch performances, with outstanding work done by the two mile relay team, headed by Frans Dolman with the time of 2 minutes 4 seconds. Other times were turned in by Dick Weer, 2 minutes 6 seconds, D. Narvaez, 2 minutes 7 seconds, P. Lyon, 2 minutes 8 seconds, which made the total time 8 minutes 26.6 seconds.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

As was expected, the annual Junior-Senior Prom was attended by many. All the best finery was brought forth, from tux for the boys to sweeping new formals and corsages for the girls. The Monterey Peninsula Country Club was the scene, and the junior class certainly kept alive the idea that the prom is always the best as far as the school dances go.

CANCER VICTIMS SAVED

By VERA WINSTON

CLEVER details distinguish the new suits and add to their charm and interest. In this one it is the deft handling of the revers that excites attention. The suit is of men's wear shadow check worsted, beige on darker beige. The buttoned-down tabs on the revers are edged in brown braid, which is also used down the jacket edge and for the pockets that are cut in one with the suit.

MISS NILES SPEAKS AT WOMAN'S CLUB

With the announcement that the California Centennials Commission has designated April-September 1950 as "The California Literary Centennial," Elizabeth Niles, librarian of the Harrison Memorial Library, spoke on "Early Women Authors of California" during the regular meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday.

Among the women writers whose lives Miss Niles described for members of the club were Ella Sterling, Yda Addis, Emma Frances Dawson, Emelie Parkhurst, Kate Douglas Wiggin, Ina Donna Coolbrith, Gertrude Atherton, Helen Hunt Jackson and Mary Austin. Miss Niles spoke of this group as "a few of the fine women who contributed to the literary greatness of this state, who, along with the men, saw the beauties of the new land, felt the romance of the new life, and recorded the human stories of love and hate, of valor and cowardice, of joy and suffering - the pioneers of the literature of California."

Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston announced that the annual flower show of the club will be held May 6 and 7 in the clubhouse. The next meeting of the group will be Monday, April 24.

Navy Crepe

Smart and effective.

By VERA WINSTON

NAVY sheer crepe is used for a dress that is not as artless as it seems, for despite its simple lines it is smart and very effective. It is pleated from shoulder to hem and has sleeves that are nothing but just slits at the dropped shoulder. A crisp starched white pique bow marks the base of the V neckline. The contour belt is of the dress fabric and is lined in leather, buckling in front. The pleated skirt is stitched, which helps to prolong the life of the pleats. It is shown with a polka dot print hat and gloves, an ideal choice for this blithe young frock.

CANCER CONTROL IS UP TO YOU ACT NOW

Cancer, detected in early stages, has a greatly increased chance of cure, the American Cancer Society points out. The 1950 Cancer Crusade of the ACS stresses this theme in its double-pronged drive of public education and fund-raising.

MEMO:

Gardening can be hazardous. Yes indeedie! If you are an impulsive person and get the urge to till the soil, move mountains (of rocks for the rock garden), or kill them durned weeds and bugs, reflect before reflexing. Better see Burke first. Avoid cricks in the back with longer handled - but easy to control tools. See our gardener's gloves so as not to blister your hands. Why pick off bugs by hand? We have sprays that stun 'em - they lose their hold and break their necks when they hit the ground. THIS is very scientific gardenin' - and no worries about end-of-the-month bills..... Just bring along three or four ounces of folding money... THAT takes care of EVERYTHING.

Recruit Werner K. Gunzenhauser, ex-German soldier now undergoing basic training as a member of the American Army, takes his place at bat, during a Physical Training period at Fort Ord.

FORMER GERMAN SOLDIER TRAINING AT FORT ORD

Among the 200 trainees in Company "F", 8th Infantry Regiment, who are receiving basic training at Fort Ord, there is a young GI who has an unusual background. This recruit, Werner K. Gunzenhouser, of San Francisco, is one of the few members of the American Army who served as a member of the German Army during World War II.

A resident of the United States for less than one year, Rct. Gunzenhauser finds the U.S. Army to his complete liking and is planning to make a career of it. He arrived in the United States early in July of last year under the present immigration quota alloted to refugees of Occupied Germany.

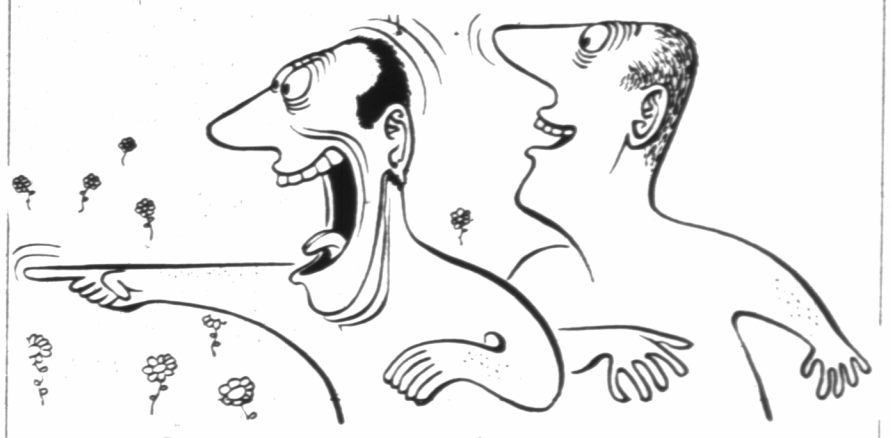
Prior to his arrival in this country he had worked for the Allied Forces in Occupied Germany and there decided to come to America and make a new start in life.

Upon arrival in the United States he was employed for several months in the Los Angeles area and in December of last year was joined by his mother, Mrs. Milly Gunzenhouser, who at present is residing in San Francisco with her cousins who came to this country in 1938.

Because he was of Jewish descent, Recruit Gunzenhouser was not drafted into the German Army until November of 1944, serving with the 14th Infantry Regiment until May of 1945. He attained the rank of corporal while a squad leader with his regiment.

Comparing the differences in the basic training of the German and American Armies, Rct. Gunzenhouser states, "The American and German Armies are comparatively the same. with the exception that the American Army stresses more classroom work, lectures, and gives more attention to each soldier as an individual." Comparing the physical training that both Armies undergo, he commented, "The American G.I.'s physical training is just as tough as that which I underwent as a German private, although we had to do our training while wearing full field equipment."

MOSCOW'S GUBITCHEV took an American television set back home with him. Probably wants to compare it with the one the Russians invented back in 1950 B. C.



WOW! Did you see that gal in the Rose Marie Reid swim suit over there!

CROSBY TELLS WHY HE LIVES HERE

Bing Crosby in the syndicated newspaper Sunday weekly magazine Parade, paid the following tribute to Pebble Beach and to golf. His favorite place? Parade asked the movies' Bing Crosby, got this enthusiastic reply in the next mail:

"For a man who has spent most of his life in the hustle and bustle of show business, I happen to be extra-ordinarily fond of peace and seclusion. Whenever I can get away from it all, I'm a happy guy. That's why I own a ranch up near Elko, Nevada, and lazily shift myself there for several weeks every summer.

"But alas, I must earn a living and feed a quartet of offspring appetites -- all hearty ones. That means I must find my seclusion nearer to Hollywood and my alma mater, Paramount. So I have found my favorite spot near enough and yet far from movietown, about 300 miles north of it. The place is Pebble Beach, 100 miles south of San Francisco.

"Up there, I built our new home two years ago, and I live there every hour I'm not acting, cutting records or disporting on radio.

"I can drive from the studio to my front door in seven hours, The house is in a wooded area of cone pines and cypress trees, overlooking the blue pacific, and affords a view to challenge the most exacting of tastes.

"I'm not a seaman. I own no boats. I seldom sail. But I love that expansive panorama of the bluest, calmest ocean in the world.

"Some rumor-mongers have hinted that I'm fond of golf. Fond? I'm an addict. Take my front lawn, for example. It's the twelfth green of the Pebble Beach course. And by a strange coincidence there are two other courses nearby: Monterey and Cypress Point!

"Now you can probably understand why I nominate for my number one favorite bit of haven on earth..home on the Pacific's shore at Pebble Beach.

This beautiful photograph of Lone Cypress on the 17-Mile Drive was taken with a Polaroid one-minute camera by James C. Burkholder, owner of The Village Cleaner in Carmel. Mr. Burkholder has had his camera only a short time, but seems to prove its worth for any kind of photography.

AUDUBON SCREEN TOUR TUESDAY

The final Audubon Screen Tour at Sunset School Auditorium will be held Tuesday night, April 25, with the noted lecturer and naturalist Alexander Sprunt, Jr., as guide. The tour will be "From Coast to Crest" extending from the famed Audubon sanctuaries of the Texas gulf coast across the country to the Yellowstone.

As previously announced, the net proceeds are to be donated to the Point Lobos League fund for the purchase of land near the Carmel River mouth for use as a state park.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S

WHO IS IT?

Charles L. Dawson, principal of the Carmel Adult School, is featured in this week's "Who Is It?" Mr. Dawson was born in 1915 in nearby Aromas, Calif., and received his education through high school in Pacific Grove. He attended Sacramento Junior College, Oregon State College (where he played football and basketball), and did some graduate work at Stanford University. He majored in education and biological sciences, but his first position was as head of the physical education department at Hayward Junior High School. Married to the former Muriel Lane, of Castle Rock, Washington, Mr. Dawson is the father of four children: Charles, 10, Dale, 8, Karen, 5, and Darryl, who has been a member of the Dawson family only four weeks. Mr. Dawson came to Carmel in 1945 and, in addition to his duties as head of the local evening classes for adults, he teaches a science course at the high school and coaches reserve football and lightweight basketball. The scope of the Carmel Adult School is such that he has a regular principalship, coordinating the various classes and hiring teachers. Mr. Dawson is a veteran abalone hunter who has a strong interest in wildlife of this area. He has a large, athletic physique which is quite familiar to baseball fans of the Abalone League and Adult League.

"HOWZAT?"

"Well, you know they always take a trip about this time. Other years they never rode me during the two or three weeks before they left."

"HOWZAT?"

"Because they wrote to the carriers."

"HOWZAT?"

"The steamship, plane and train companies."

"Oh" -

"And made phone calls and fussed around with schedules 'n time tables. They had terrible experiences by forgetting to compensate for time zones, missed connections, meals, and even had to lose a day in an embassy getting some shots they hadn't noticed in the mess of booklets they'd worked through. They got their travelers cheques in too big denominations, too, and had to waste time and money on "deals" to straighten everything out.

"This year (GROAN) it was different!

"HOWZAT?"

"A travel agent named David Prince ran some ads in the SPECTATOR in which he worked out all the bothersome details of travel ... FOR NOTHING.

"HOWZAT?"

"Those carriers reserve a commission for travel agents IF they do the work. So... my owner let David Prince DO EVERYTHING... and then he rode me every day and played golf 'n stuff like that right up until time to go. They left so calmly this year too... No worries, for a change.

"That just shows what a little HORSE SENSE can do."

COUNTY WORKMEN'S INSURANCE COST CUT BY SAFETY RECORD

As a result, the County of Monterey has reduced its workmen's compensation insurance cost by 53.5 percent of the premium. This saving was in the form of a cash dividend amounting to $8,965.26.

VALLEY WOMEN PLAN MAY DAY "FLOWERS AND FASHIONS" FESTIVAL

Fashions and flowers will go on display in Carmel Valley on May Day under the auspices of the Carmel Valley Women's Club, which has arranged an afternoon affair for Monday, May 1, at The Carousel. "Flowers and Fashions of 1950" will be the theme of the festival.

During the luncheon, professional models will display new Spring clothes from the Wilma Campbell shop - everything from swim suits to evening wear. Miss Campbell herself will be at the microphone to commentate and there will be two showings, each one hour long, at 12:30 and 2 p.m.

The Carousel patio and dining room will be massed with flowers from the various peninsula florists who have consented to furnish displays and floral door prizes. Features of the flower show will be a potted begonia table by Bishop's Pine View Nursery and Hanssen's Begonia Gardens, flower arrangements by Virginia Neilson and Mrs. Robert Stanton and a showing of wildflower specimens by Ferdinand Haasis. Peninsula clubs are invited to enter flower displays.

Art will be tied into the May Day activities, with James and Alison Solt around and about and painting, and patio murals prepared by Jo O'Dell.

Hostesses for the event will be the Mesdames Roderick Ekert, Earl Graft, John Cox, E. J. Woodburn, Hugh Irwin, E. H. Haber, Earl James, Nelson Leoni, C. F. Whelan, Jean D. Lewis, Peter Girard, E. J. Hergenhan, C. B. Cortright, Chester Bell, Ivan Thomas and Miss May De Serpa.

Tickets for "Flowers and Fashions of 1950" are available at Staniford's Drug Store and Carmel Art Shop in Carmel, Palace Drug Co., Monterey, Grove Pharmacy in Pacific Grove, at The Carousel and Lewis Gift Shop in Carmel Valley.

Albert F. Randolph, of Carmel, a representative of the Forrest J. Curry Agency of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. in San Francisco, was among the 46 agency members to receive the President's Award - highest honor created in the 103-year history of the firm - when it was presented in a special ceremony Friday night in Berkeley. The award, an elaborate bronze plaque, was presented for "the most outstanding contribution to the company's progress" during the past year.

REOPENS RESTAURANT IN HISTORIC SAN JUAN BAUTISTA BUILDING

Reopening of the historic La Casa Rosa as a restaurant and art-antique shop in San Juan Bautista is scheduled for Friday, April 28, under the ownership of Mrs. Lulu Dirksen, of San Francisco, who is the sister of Katherine Kirk, of Carmel. Specializing in old California recipes, with emphasis on apple pie, La Casa Rosa will also house an antique business, and the owners will accept authentic pieces for sale on consignment.

The owners have converted the second story, which was many years ago a gambling hall, into living quarters and have furnished the 100-year-old building with antiques that are two and three centuries old.

Mrs. Dirksen, formerly manager of Temple Bar in San Francisco, reports that La Casa Rosa will be open for luncheon, tea and for dinner by reservation. San Juan Bautista is 35 miles from Carmel by the new cut-off to Route 101 through Fort Ord.

tions. And listen to this: Harry is being guaranteed nine thousand dollars on the reprint issues. The book will also be aired on the radio. Well, Mr. Zanuck?

Don Craig got himself elected again, Allen Knight is mayor of Carmel, Andy Martin is police commissioner, and the Carmelites said no to the zoning question, so our predictions were pretty good.

Just a word on this, however. Got a Phone call from someone who was miffed because she thought our predictions last week were intended as support of those we picked. This was not true, but, if it had been true, so what?

Parent Problems

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

THE usual philosophy of education of children who will use their hands to make a living (of most children, therefore) is that their heads should be so trained that their hands will be more skillful. Almost no consideration is given to training the head to go on operating for pleasure while the hands are able to go it more or less alone.

Some years ago while serving on a program of a teachers' convention in Illinois I came across an old friend of mine under forty years of age, who had published numerous researches and had served with distinction on a university faculty. He told me he had gone out there and turned farmer on his physician's orders. "But, Garry, I can think of lots of things while driving a tractor and I make more money at it than I did as a university professor."

A Good Thing

I asked him if he didn't believe it would be a good thing if any other person driving a tractor or doing a similar job also had much to think about. Why shouldn't the man or woman running a machine all day, which requires almost no mental exercise, have something in the head to remember or think about the while? Suppose he could recall some great items of art, music, literature or turn over in his mind some ideas that engaged the attention of scholars of the ages. Then suppose that, during his leisure hours, he recalled, thought about and enjoyed such treasures of his mind with his wife or other persons. How about the carpenter, bricklayer, housewife or any other person engaged day after day in work with the hands?

But some may say, "Any person who can so employ the mind won't be doing such jobs." Nonsense! Thousands of persons with minds as keen and full of treasures choose to work with the hands. Think of all the college and university women, some of them with Ph.D.'s, bringing up families or working in industries; and of all the other women without degrees or college education but just as smart or smarter than some Ph.D.'s, who are housewives or workers in an industry.

Small Proportion

In the first place there aren't white-collar jobs for more than a small proportion of those who have the educational training for these jobs. Also many other jobs pay so much more than white-collar jobs that work with the hands has gained more and more appeal.

Unfortunately, the average person with a Ph.D. has had to specialize so narrowly as to have little to think about and enjoy mentally while using the hands. Let there be more Ph.D.'s at the machine, and in the nursery or kitchen provided these Ph.D.'s go on and get some education, at least a broader education. In the future there need not be many more Ph.D.'s but rather more persons with an equivalent amount of learning spread far more widely.

Of course, not all children have native mental talents enabling them to gain so much learning. Yet most could acquire far more than they ever will. Certainly we parents all want our children to have as much in their heads to think about and enjoy as they reasonably can get. We can do more than most of us do to help them keep on learning.

Tomorrow we shall consider how the young mother may prepare herself now for a most abundant and useful life when her children will have grown up.

Ways to Serve Spring Lamb

By ALICE DENHOFF

IT'S lamb time at market, and good cooks are busy dusting off recipes to do justice to this good Spring-time meat. The bland taste of lamb just calls for all sorts of seasonings and herbs and it's fun to experiment, working out new combinations and improving on the old ones.

Try the oriental touch of curry with lamb shoulder chops for something really nice. Delicious curried lamb chops are prepared by breading the chops with fine crumbs mixed with curry then braising them in a chutney-type sauce. When serving a dish with a flavor as unusual as curry, it's well to round out the family menu with old favorites such as buttered carrots, green vegetable salad, soft rolls, sherbet or ice cream with cookies. Either the round bone or blade shoulder chops may be used in this recipe for 6 servings.

To make, wipe 6 shoulder lamb chops (one-inch thick) with a damp cloth. Combine one c. fine bread crumbs, 2 tsp. curry, ¾ tsp. salt and ½ tsp. pepper, mixing well. Dredge chops in crumb mixture, then in 2 beaten eggs, then again in crumbs. Brown chops in melted fat in a heavy skillet. Add ½ c. bouillon and ½ c. chopped. spiced peaches; cover with tight-fitting lid, and cook slowly for 40 min. Remove chops; add 2 tbsp. flour to drippings, stirring until smooth. Add one c. spiced peach juice and cook until smooth. Serve over rice mounds.

It's always amazing to discover how a bit of unusual seasoning tends to turn lamb into a different dish, and enhance its flavor. A teaspoon of caraway seeds added to a lamb stew puts it in the gourmet category. Or you might add a tsp. of subtle, sweet marjoram. If you crave the flavor of bay leaf in lamb stew, better be cautious, and add just half a leaf, remembering to remove it before serving. A little chopped parsley and ground allspice are good seasonings for lamb patties. Rub a bit of powdered ginger into a leg of lamb before roasting it, or you might try a little rosemary sprinkled over this cut.

If you are a fortunate individual with a fresh herb garden, use four times as much fresh herbs as dried, if you are substituting fresh herbs for the dried variety. Mention of lamb patties a little way back reminds us of a good way of preparing them. Mix 1 lb. ground lamb with 6 slices ground bacon. Form into patties, and presto, they're ready to be pan-fried or broiled.

Odd Fact

Workers in a coalyard in Buffalo, N. Y., built a fire underneath a coal carrier to thaw a frozen shipment. The blaze ignited the coal. Water put out the fire but refroze the coal.
